

COOKIES POLICY

1. What are Cookies?

A cookie is a small data file that seeks your permission to be stored on your computer's hard drive. Once accepted, it helps track website traffic and notifies businesses when you visit specific sites. Cookies allow websites to personalize your experience by storing your preferences.

At Landmark Markets, cookies help us improve your browsing experience by identifying the pages you find most useful and customizing the site to suit your preferences. The cookies we use do not run code or spread viruses. They support core site functions, analytics, and marketing ensuring the content you see aligns with your interests. We respect your privacy and offer tools for managing your cookie settings.

2. Landmark Markets Cookie Policy

Landmark Markets uses different types of cookies to ensure efficient delivery of their products and services. These cookies are grouped into the following categories:

2.1. Essential Cookies

These are crucial for the website to function properly. They support features like navigation, account applications, remembering login details, live chat, and other core functionalities. Disabling these cookies may restrict full access to our platform.

2.2. Analytical Cookies

These cookies help enhance website performance and user experience by analyzing how the site is used. They allow us to tailor content and functionality based on user preferences and behavior.

2.3. Marketing Cookies

These cookies allow us to share relevant content with users on third-party websites and evaluate the performance of our marketing campaigns. We follow industry standards when using marketing cookies. The data collected is anonymized and does not personally identify you.

However, declining these cookies may limit your ability to experience the website's full functionality.
